Rome-Athens Squabble Shifted To Council Of Ambassadors By League

Geneva Body Postpones Meeting
Scheduled For Friday
To Avoid Discussion

AWAIT DECISION OF ITALIANS

Total Of Corfu Bombardment
Deaths Mount To 15 As Another Child Dies

Geneva—The council of the league of nations decided to hold no meeting Friday. It was also agreed that the scheduled session of the assembly should be postponed, the controlling reason being a desire to avoid dangerous discussions at a plenary meeting of the delegates until the council had seen some light as to its duty in the Greco-Italian negotiations and is able to make some report to the assembly.

The council Thursday postponed decision on the question of the league's competence to intervene in the Italo-Greek imbroglio. It decided instead to forward the minutes of its discussion to the Council of Ambassadors in Paris, thus in effect submitting the matter to the latter.

AVOID DANGEROUS TALK
Paris—The Inter-Allied Council of Ambassadors, after a lengthy session Friday morning, adjourned until afternoon to avoid defining word whether Italy is prepared to accept the mediation of the council in the Greco-Italian dispute. Friday morning ambassadors discussed the advisability of sending a commission to the scene of the massacre of the Italian boundary mission to investigate.

The French government favors attempting to settle the Italo-Greek question by every possible means before appeal is made to the League of Nations, and thinks the ambassadors' council is the most authoritative body.

DEATH TOTAL MOUNTS TO 13
Corfu—The Greek police force here is again on duty but is serving under orders of an Italian captain. Outgoing press dispatches are subjected to censorship.

Two thousand persons on Wednesday attended the funeral of six-year-old Mary Bryant, the only native killed in the bombardment.

Another child has died, bringing the deaths to fifteen.

EXPLOSIVE BULLETS USED
Rome—A message from Tirana, Albania, to the Stefani agency says an autopsy has established that the members of the Italian boundary mission, the massacre of which precipitated the present Italo-Greek crisis, were killed by explosive bullets.

Weeks' Changes Ford Plan For Muscle Shoals

By Associated Press
Washington—The administration has proposed to Henry Ford a modification of his offer for the purchase and lease of the government's power and nitrate projects at Muscle Shoals, Ala., and the Detroit manufacturer, after conferences with President Coolidge and Secretary Weeks has taken the proposal under advisement. Negotiations on the offer were reopened when Mr. Ford came here Thursday at the request of the president.

The modification proposed by Secretary Weeks involves elimination from the offer of the Corps Power plant on the Warrior river which the war secretary is understood to have informed Mr. Ford the government probably would be compelled to sell to the Alabama Power company under the contract agreement entered into with it when the plant was constructed.

KLAN REVEALED AS TULSA WHIPPERS

More Than 500 Witnesses Cast
Blame For Mob Violence
On K. K. K.

By Associated Press
Oklahoma City, Okla.—The Ku Klux Klan was revealed Friday as the organization charged by Governor Walton with responsibility for the lynchings in Tulsa.

Evidence gathered by the military court investigating mob floggings in the vicinity of Tulsa, lays authority of the outrages directly at the door of the Klan. It was declared by Adolph Blake, counselor to the governor, that the Klan was the "invisible empire" of Tulsa.

Summing up the "brutal refrain of the 1,200 pages of testimony already adduced," the executive councillor asserted: "It is always the Klan or some members of the Klan."

Scores of victims of Tulsa mob rule have died in fear of their lives and Blake said, "Tulsa's 'most famous whipping pasture,' a spot a mile and a quarter south east of Tulsa, was described by Blake as a place of torture from which 'strong men stagger away ruined for life.' A broad leather strap 'cat tailed' at the tip, was the instrument of punishment he pictured."

WAR VET DIES OF OVERDOSE OF NARCOTIC IN HOSPITAL

By Associated Press
Chicago—William Reinhold, 44-year-old, veteran of the American Expeditionary Forces, died at the Edward Hines Jr. memorial hospital Friday morning of an overdose of a narcotic drug. Reinhold seven months ago had been sent to the hospital by the psychopathic court for mental observation. The source of the drug was a mystery, they said. It is believed to have been given Reinhold by another patient. Attaches of the hospital said it had not been ordered for Reinhold by any physician.

International Lawyers Believe Rome Cannot Escape Jurisdiction Of League Without Violating Treaty

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1923 by The Post Pub. Co.
Washington—Will the treaty of Versailles become a "scrap of paper?" Something more than a passing interest is being taken here in the outcome of the controversy between Italy and the League of Nations. While officially no part is taken, the conviction obtains that Italy is bound by her plighted word so long as she is a member of the league and that if she doesn't like the league she has the right to withdraw. But even withdrawal can not be effected without fulfilling obligations already incurred, and the viewpoint of international lawyers is that Italy can not escape the jurisdiction of the league covenant simply by announcing her intention to withdraw. Two years notice must be given and the member must have discharged all obligations under the covenant before being released from membership.

While Washington is the last place in the world to argue the merits or demerits of the league, nevertheless it is realized that the covenant of the league is so interwoven in the treaty of Versailles that disregard for one article of the treaty might be employed as a precedent for other nations to disregard any article of the treaty of Versailles which doesn't suit them.

Then, as Lord Robert Cecil said in Geneva, the whole structure of the settlement following the great European war is imperiled.

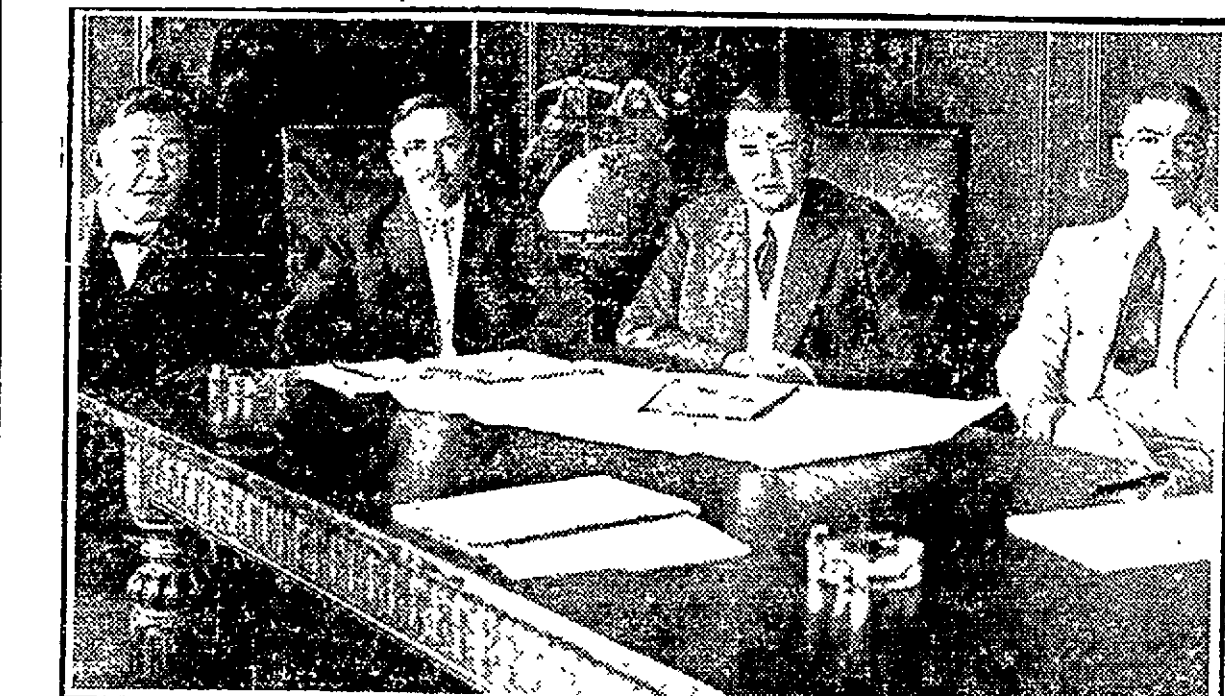

PART OF VERSAILLES TREATY
The United States government recognized that the covenant was part of the treaty of Versailles and took special pains in ratifying a pact with Germany to exclude those portions of the Versailles treaty which embraced the league. France, since the war, has insisted upon the literal fulfillment of the treaty of Versailles. It was realized from the start that questions might arise as to the meaning of the covenant of the league. The permanent court of international justice was set up as a means of interpreting the legal ambiguities of the covenant. France just the other day, however, refused to submit to the permanent court the question of whether she had the right under the Versailles treaty to occupy the Ruhr. But her refusal to submit to the permanent court is a sovereign right. Should general war be threatened, France would be compelled to submit the Ruhr controversy for consideration, at least by the league. Italy has more or less of a precedent in the action of the French. This gives to some extent a clue to the British policy affirmed by Lord Robert Cecil, of insisting on a settlement of the Greco-Italian controversy by the league. Great Britain wishes to see how far France is willing to uphold the spirit as well as the letter of the league when some other nation violates the treaty of Versailles. The British, it is noted here, have seized upon a delicate subject which has a significance far beyond the merits of the dispute between Italy and Greece.

Whatever France does in the Italian controversy may be employed against her when the reparations problem or the Ruhr occupation develops into a question of rights under the treaty of Versailles, and hostilities with Germany.

WISCONSIN TO PROBE ACTIONS OF INSPECTORS

Teasdale Bill Provides For Elimination Of Waste Thru Duplication

By Associated Press
Madison—An inquiry into the activity of state inspectors employed by departments of Wisconsin government awaits the direction of Governor Blaine.

The state board of public affairs, instructed by the last session of the legislature to investigate inspection work, which has found a duplication of work in past political campaigns, announces that it is prepared to proceed with the investigation as soon as the governor directs.

It is expected here that Governor Blaine either will call a meeting of the board to consider the proposed inquiry or will have the secretary, J. B. Borden, undertake the check up, which it is thought will determine whether there has been any duplication of work and unnecessary expense in the activity of state agents in the field.

IN EACH OTHERS' WAY
For a number of years, political capital has been made of charges that state inspectors were literally "treading on one another's toes" as they went about their duties around Wisconsin. There were charges of overlapping duties, unnecessary inspections, and pleasure jaunts all at a high cost to the people of the state.

This fact led the legislature to pass the Teasdale bill, directing the state board of public affairs to make a thorough study of the inspector situation and to report to the 1925 session.

Senator Teasdale expected that through such an inquiry it would be possible to determine upon ways in which savings could be effected, and duplication of work by inspectors eliminated.

DRY SLEUTH BLIND FROM TASTING MOON

By Associated Press
Minneapolis—Temporary blindness and illness was suffered by a prohibition agent who sampled some moonshine liquor for evidence purposes in a St. Paul soft drink bar, H. L. Duncan, northwest prohibition director, said Thursday night.

The agent, according to Mr. Duncan, immediately obtained a taxicab which rushed him to his home in Minneapolis.

"This occurrence offers addition to the evidence to the fact that practically all the liquor which is being served in soft drink bars is poisonous," declared Duncan.

$100 Check Starts Fund For Relief Of Japanese

S. A. Whedon was the first Appleton man to respond to the appeal for funds to be turned over to the American Red Cross to aid the homeless in the Japanese cities which were devastated by fire. He offered his check for $100 as the nucleus of the local fund.

Two other donations totaling $15 also were received by Secretary Hugh G. Corbett of the chamber of commerce, who is secretary of the local Japanese relief fund. Payments may be made to the chamber office or if more convenient for the donor they may be deposited at The Post-Crescent office. Checks should be made payable to Japanese Relief Fund and mailed to Mr. Corbett.

Wisconsin's quota of the $5,000,000 fund asked by President Calvin Coolidge is $75,000. Estimates compiled by the Red Cross headquarters in Washington indicate that people are responding swiftly to the distress cry from the Far East. About $2,000,000 has been subscribed to date. The list of givers will be published daily in The Post-Crescent.

Members of the local relief committee are Attorney J. P. Frank, Mrs. S. C. Rosebush, Gustave Keller, H. L. Davis, William Fountain and W. H. Zuehlke.

T. J. VERMEULEN IS VICTIM OF HOLDUP

Police Ruling Prevents Restaurant Man From Obtaining Prim's Help

Thomas J. Vermeulen, proprietor of Vermeulen's tea room at 522 College ave., was held up by two highwaymen about half way between Appleton and Waverly beach shortly after 1 o'clock Friday morning, while on his way to his cottage at Lake Winnebago.

The strangers whom he said looked like and acted the part of professionals, got nothing for their trouble as they found his pockets empty. After inquiring where he was going they permitted him to drive on.

In relating his experience, Mr. Vermeulen said he noticed an automobile standing in the middle of the road ahead of him and in order to get by he had to slow down as the road was narrow.

He saw no one and while driving cautiously in order to avoid the ditch something touched his arm and on looking in that direction he saw it was the muzzle of a revolver.

"Stop your motor and get out," commanded the gunman. Mr. Vermeulen did as he was ordered with the weapon still pressing his side and as soon as he was on his feet a confederate came from behind the automobile in the middle of the highway and went through his pockets.

Mr. Vermeulen was clad in his white overalls just as he came from work and was not asked to produce the contents of his pockets. After satisfying themselves he had nothing they instructed him to drive on.

Upon reaching his cottage Mr. Vermeulen immediately notified George T. Prim, chief of police, of the holdup with a view of having the highwaymen run to earth. But was informed by that official the affair took place outside of the city limits and that according to instructions from the fire and police commission he was not permitted to use the police car outside of his jurisdiction.

Three United States Destroyers Take 300 Americans Aboard

THIRTY DAY MORATORIUM

Heavy Punishment Set For Rioting, False Rumors And Profiteering

By Associated Press
Although latest reports from Japan lead to the hope that the death toll is not as large as had been feared, the destruction wrought by the earthquake, tidal wave and fire has been tremendous.

A dispatch from Shanghai Friday morning says that information received there Friday makes it apparent that the losses, both in life and property, were much exaggerated.

Different sources agree, however, that two thirds of Tokyo has been laid waste. A message from the American consul at Shanghai to the state department, quotes a British cruiser at Yokohama as authority for the statement that the city has been virtually destroyed.

Three United States destroyers have arrived at Yokohama and taken aboard 300 Americans.

One report, which has not been confirmed says cholera has broken out in the port.

Tokio home of 3,000,000 makes no attempt to strike a total for Tokyo, but many coast towns and villages were in the path of the tidal wave, or the other communities that were in the earthquake zone.

The foreign and residential sections in both the capital and the port seem to have escaped the destruction, owing to their favorable location, but the slums and the industrial districts suffered severely. However, Tokyo's buildings of modern construction are said to have escaped. As America hurries supply ships across the Pacific, the people of the United States are responding generously to the appeal for help and it is believed that the $5,000,000 Red Cross quota can be surpassed.

All missionaries of the reformed churches are reported safe.

PAYMENT POSTPONED

Osaka—The Japanese government has proclaimed a thirty day moratorium for payments falling due from Sept. 1 to Sept. 30. The moratorium is inapplicable outside the zone of the disaster.

Persons profiteering in essential commodities face imprisonment for three years or a fine of 3,000 yen, while any one found guilty of spreading rumors with the object of encouraging rioting, damaging property, or disturbing the peace may be imprisoned for ten years or fined 3,000 yen.

The promulgation of the moratorium as well as the edicts against profiteering and the circulation of false rumors are made public in the form of emergency imperial decrees.

ESTIMATES ARE VARYING
Shanghai—All Friday's reports from Japan indicate that the first estimates of the loss of life and damage from earthquakes and fire, and tidal waves were much exaggerated.

An Associated Press radiogram intercepted here estimated casualties in Yokohama at 50,000. An Eastern News telegram said 30,000 already had been counted west of Tokyo.

A Reuter's report said all banks were re-opening. The bank of Japan was intact, according to the dispatch.

It is difficult to get a correct picture of the situation in the ruined zone because of varying reports.

Needy German Woman Seeking Relatives Here

The assistance of E. L. Williams, city clerk, has been requested by a resident of Germany in locating relatives that are believed to have settled near here between the years of 1871 and 1875.

The family concerning whom information is desired is that of Hans Carl Friedrich Bornemann who was born in Neddemin, Pomerania, in 1851, came to America, married here and had the following children: Augusta, born 1882; Clara, born 1884; Rudolph, born 1887; Franziska, born 1888. The request comes from a cousin named Meta Verow who is in sore straits financially and asks for help.

Mr. Williams succeeded in learning about a Clara Bornemann who was employed as a housemaid here in 1919, but later ascertained that the girl was much younger than the one mentioned above and has since moved from the city and married. Any information regarding the identity of the family will be of use to the city clerk.

Ten Years' Growth

In 1912, the Company's cars carried 145,331,079 passengers; in 1922 they carried 199,162,836—a gain of 37 per cent. Increase of street railway traffic keeps pace with increase of population, in spite of increased use of automobiles.

Dec. 31, 1912, the Company had 22,606 electric service customers; Dec. 31, 1922, it had 108,420—a gain of 380 per cent. Increase of electric service business is several times as fast as increase of population. Ten years ago the street railway division was the big end of the Company's business. Today the electric service division is the big end, and it is growing so much faster that it will eventually be many times as large as the railway division.

In 1912, the Company's gross revenue was $7,729,822.98; in 1922, it was $19,493,012.30—a gain of 152 per cent.

Capitalization outstanding Dec. 31, 1912, against property now owned by the Company, was $53,265,000; on Dec. 31, 1922, it was $61,250,000—an increase of fourteen and one-half per cent.

In 1912, 3,399 employees drew $2,649,877.38 in wages; in 1922, 5,039 employees drew $7,956,252.93—a 51 per cent increase in number of employees, and a 202 per cent increase in total wages paid.

Summed up: with fourteen and one-half per cent increase in capitalization outstanding, the Company in ten years increased its street car traffic 37 per cent, its electric service customers 380 per cent, its gross revenue 152 per cent, its employees 51 per cent and its wage roll 202 per cent.

These facts explain why 30,000 Wisconsin men and women—23,000 of them in Milwaukee city and suburbs—have invested their savings in Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light Co. and its affiliated companies during the past five years. They know it is one of the solidest and safest permanent income investments in Wisconsin.

Hundreds more each month are buying shares of the Company's 7% cumulative preferred stock, issued with the State's approval to finance this year's growth. The shares cost $100 each—all cash or $5 down and $5 monthly per share. Either way, buyers get 7 per cent interest or dividends on every dollar invested, from the start. Cash dividends on paid up shares are mailed to shareholders every three months.

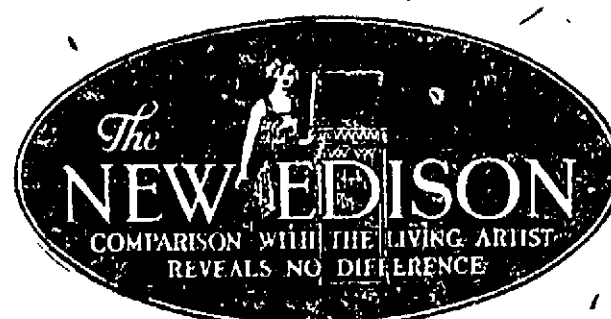

If you want a safe 7% income for idle money, or for your monthly savings, here is the place to get it. Come in and talk it over, or telephone 1005. Mail orders filled by registered letter.

Fines amounting to $401 and costs totaling $104.80 were turned over by the municipal court to the county treasurer this week. That was the amount of money received by the justice branch of the court during August for criminal offenses. The city treasurer received $40 in fines and $11 for officers' fees involving violations of city ordinances. The total receipts for the month were $595.38.

There were 34 convictions on various offenses, 25 of which were for violation of the speed laws. Of the latter number, 21 were arrested by Wilbur Bogan, county motorcycle officer. The other speeders were arrested under the city ordinance. The fine in each case amounted to $10. Of the five drunkards taken into court, one received ten days in the workhouse, two received five days in the workhouse and two paid small fines. One man paid a fine for stealing an automobile robe, another was fined for assault and battery, and one man was dismissed after payment of the court costs in the case of using an automobile without the owner's consent. The largest fine was $200, which was for possession of illicit liquor.

FLAGMAN ADDED AT LAKE-ST CROSSING

Traffic on Lake-st has increased to such an extent the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway company and the Chicago & Northwestern Railway company have found it necessary to place an additional flagman on duty at the railway crossings between the two depots and are now giving the public day and night service.

The additional flagman is William Tierney of the Third ward. The other two flagmen are Peter Miller and Joseph Deonesous, who have been on duty at the crossings for several years. The trio works in shifts of eight hours each.

Every precaution against accidents is being taken by these men and it is due in great measure to their alertness that none has been recorded lately.

ON THE SCREEN

Huxley says that "the great end of life is not knowledge but action" and in "A Man of Action" which is the feature this week at the Elite theatre, Thomas H. Ince has produced a mystery-comedy which is all action. "A Man of Action" is a movie that moves.

So-called "mystery comedies" have been rather rare of late. The last really good one was "Officer 666." Thomas H. Ince's latest is speedier even than "Officer 666" and the author, Bradley King, has preserved the dramatic unities by writing a story, the action of which all takes place within twenty-four hours.

The hero is a young San Francisco millionaire who is somewhat of a lotus eater. His sweetheart tires of seeing him live a life of dolce far niente and urges him to action. The hero goes down to the Barbary Coast of San Francisco and from then on the fun begins.

A master-crook and four other characters, "Frisco Rose," who wears second-hand clothes, "The Deacon," who is an expert this-way-out artist, and "Hoppy" Hopwood, a shell-shocked veteran of a Central American revolution, take the young millionaire in tow believing him to be "The Chicago Kid."

"A Man of Action" is an under world comedy that keeps everyone guessing from start to finish. There is a diamond robbery with the owner of the jewels mistaken for a crook and locked up in his own house with the crooks for twenty-four hours.

Douglas MacLean heads the all-star cast which also includes Marguerite de la Motte and Raymond Hatton. Supporting the principal players are some of the finest character actors in screendom, among them Wade Boteler, Kingsley Benedict, Arthur Stewart Hull, William Courtwright and Katherine Lewis.

"A Man of Action" is good melodramatic comedy. It is fast and funny, has just enough love interest and provides Douglas MacLean with the best vehicle he has had since "The Hotentot."

P. O. WILL SEND TEN TO MADISON CONFERENCE

Appleton delegates to the state postal conference in Madison Sept. 20 have not yet been named. The United States postal department will allow ten men of the local office to attend. Among them will be Postmaster William H. Zuchlik, Herman J. French, assistant postmaster, and probably John Leiter, superintendent of mails.

It is expected that three city letter carriers, three rural mail carriers and two postoffice clerks will attend. The rural carriers will have substitutes to take their places on the routes, and the city carriers and clerks who will attend will be among those who are taking their vacation at the time. This arrangement will prevent curtailment of service.

KEEPING HIS HEAD
President Coolidge shows good judgment in announcing that he will be sparing of advice to members of congress. He displays conservatism, too, in declaring that he will let business alone and avoid governmental interference with commerce. Likewise, he is prudent in declining to call an extra session of congress.

Conditions will improve if trade, manufacture, agriculture and transportation are let alone. Commerce is generally able to solve its problems, and it does better through its own efforts and without help, or so-called help. As presiding officer of the senate and governor of Massachusetts Mr. Coolidge could not have failed to note the vanity of legislators. They are the most willing persons on earth to give advice. They "know" how to solve every problem. They resent suggestions, especially from those who really do know, but they shake with fear at hints from their home districts. Senators and representatives in Washington, like all legislators, desire to pose to their constituents as great men, the kind of great men who do not need counsel.

President Coolidge displays not only good judgment but sound familiarity with politics by refusing at this time to assume legislative leadership. The best thing he can do is to have as little of congress as possible, and not to strain himself in an effort to meet the plottings and schemings of politicians. Minimum interference in the activities of the country, aside from those that are purely governmental, will get him farther in the confidence of the public than meddlesome tendencies. Thus far the new president is handling himself with excellent restraint and judgment.

THE BLAME FOR CRIME
The American Bar association report on crime places the blame for America's excessive murder rate upon a general public indifference, plus the delays and loopholes of America's antiquated justice. England and Wales have swifter justice and a habit of treating criminals in a businesslike and unsentimental way. The result in these countries is that capital punishment is a deterrent instead of an incentive to crime. Our dilatory court system and the perhaps excessively sympathetic nature of American juries has rendered the death penalty, as revealed by statistics compiled for various homogeneous districts like the group of states around Michigan, a booster of the murder totals. Rather than accept the responsibility for taking life, juries and judges and governors avail themselves of every technicality to free the individual. The result is demoralization.

Administration of our criminal law needs making over, and it can be made over. But it is doubtful if the American people can be turned back to the state of mind which made capital punishment a desirable and useful penalty. British newspapers inform us of a steady trend of opinion against its use even in England and Wales. Presently juries abroad will refuse to apply it and the necessity of its removal will be as well recognized abroad as here. Capital punishment works only where juries believe in the death penalty.

TOO MUCH GOLD
In nine years the United States has increased its supply of gold from $1,890, 678,804 to $4,078,568,612, or 115 per cent. It now has nearly half of all the gold in the world stored in its bank vaults and treasury reserves.

This gold, taken from nations which theoretically need it badly and given to a nation which manifestly does not need it, being the richest on earth, has not ceased coming to us since the armistice, as some expected. Despite an increase of imports over exports, the flow in this direction continues at the rate of $21,000,000 a month. The New York Herald, published by Frank Munsey and notably authoritative on financial matters, explains this paradox partly by the fact that the amount of gold flowing to different nations is determined rather by relative purchasing power than by relative need, and partly by the condition in principal European nations which are off a gold basis and make no pretense of paying gold on demand, and so keep only a small gold reserve in their coffers.

The most significant lesson to be derived from our incoming gold flood is that it can't go on forever and that the longer it keeps up the greater the necessity mounts for enabling Europe to pay us in goods.

George M. Reynolds, president of the Continental and Commercial National bank of Chicago, pointed out recently that it was impossible for Europe to continue paying us in gold, the old medium of international exchange. If Europe sufficiently increases its exports to this country to overbalance its imports from us, it will in the long run automatically remove the necessity for settling a balance in gold flowing this way. And if Europe gets back on a gold basis the tendency to send gold and empty the reserves will disappear.

It will be to the interest of the United States in a business way not only to encourage imports—an end which certainly does not point to the means of excessive tariffs—but to assist in European stabilization so that some of the excess gold will be needed and sought after as reserves back of currency. Carried far enough, our business could be drowned in our own golden flood.

JAPAN QUESTIONS
Public officials and the press of Tokio are discussing, in much suspicion, the plans of Great Britain to make "Singapore the Gibraltar of the Pacific" and of the United States to spend more than a billion dollars for military defenses in Hawaii and along the Pacific coast. Japan views the proposed works as violations of the spirit of the Washington arms covenant.

Taking the Orient as a whole, which includes China and Eastern Russia, it is undergoing striking development, and there is no way of foretelling what extraordinary events may emanate from these fundamental changes. The United States is aiming solely at preserving peace wherever possible, if necessary.

SENSELESS FEAR
A baby 100 days old, Marylin Jean Anderson, falls off a railroad bridge into the river at Chippewa Falls, Wis. The water is warm. She enjoys herself, evidently thinks she's in a bathtub. She kicks happily. That keeps her afloat and she is rescued.

A grownup, unable to swim, would have drowned. Why? Because fear would counteract the animal ability to swim that is born in all of us. Fear drowns more people than water.

Blondin walked across a cable suspended above Niagara Falls. The rest of us would get frightened, lose our balance and drown. But we could walk the same cable stretched only a foot above safe ground. It isn't the difficulty of walking on a cable that makes people fall. They topple off because they fear danger.

Fear increases, by many times, the hazard of a dangerous situation. That's because fear involves loss of confidence in our ability to conquer the dangerous situation. Confidence in self is what makes the man of average or even inferior ability rise to greater success than the timid individual with exceptional abilities, natural gifts or skilled training.

Never frighten a child. Fear is contagious, feeds on itself and makes failure in life almost inevitable. Self-confidence is the key to achievement, to success.

The honeymoon ends where the real life begins. Flax crop is large. Go ahead and get chaffers in your eye. Help use surplus flax seeds.

Your lot could be worse. A whale's bones weigh 25 tons. Suppose you were a rhinoceros whale? One of the books we would like to see written is "Confessions of a Coal Dealer."

TRYING TO ENJOY POOR-HEALTH
Keep a dog in the house nosing the fire all the time and feed him enough to maintain two dogs, yet never permit him to chase even a cat, and before long your dog is spoiled. Or feed the horse well; keep her in the stall most of the time, and when you do ride out make it as short as possible, and in a little while your horse is ruined.

Two reasons why Theodore Roosevelt was universally loved were the nondescript old hat he usually wore and the fact that he did not consider sweating vulgar.

In the neocene era of hoop skirts, wasp waists, whisky straight and fainting damozels, sprained ankles and hirsute lambskins, the bon tons took considerable "carriage exercise" when they weren't laid up with gout. A good many motorists harbor a similar delusion. A fat woman who appealed for reduction advice the other day, declared that she gets lots of exercise driving her car. That's really recreation and rest. Pumping up tires and filling the grease cups and washing the bus are exercise.

Exercise that does not make you warm around the collar and start the sweat is not likely to do you much good. The perspiration carries no appreciable poisons or waste from the body as the dietitians would have it, but the degree of exertion required to produce the perspiration has a wholesome influence on metabolism, increasing the oxygenation of the tissues and incidentally the destruction of waste matter in the blood.

Some people who religiously avoid exercise, try to enjoy poor health by resorting to artificial fillips of one kind and another, highly seasoned stimulants, food, alcohol, Turkish baths, massage, even drugs. Others get this oxygenation by deep breathing exercises, comparable with an attempt to lift oneself with one's own bootstraps. Still others grasp the other horn and follow all sorts of freak diet systems or take up somebody's patent hydrotherapy in a childish hope of getting the toxemia or auto-intoxication under control. From the time the hypothetical or fanciful condition known as auto-intoxication became popularized, the idea has prevailed that one's food is to blame, hence the freak diet systems and the innumerable schemes to rectify a faulty digestion. This is merely a modern way of blaming the liver for the life brought on by wrong living.

The universal use of the automobile, as well as other means of conveyance for distances which people formerly walked, has a distinct influence upon the prevalence of this ill defined state known as auto-intoxication. Thousands of people who never get enough exercise to start real perspiration, much less to excite hard breathing, wonder why they never feel just right and spend much of their leisure and spare money seeking or trying plausible remedies or new fangled methods of treatment which somehow fail to effect the desired cure. Soon or late these auto-intoxicated individuals get the obsession that they need a "nervine tonic." But here's a formula which most nearly fills the order:

Two miles of oxygen three times a day, on the hoof.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
But Why Stress The Hoof?
Several readers ask: "Why stress walking? Why not golf? Why not other forms of exercise?"
Answer—It is like iodine. There are dozens of different forms in which one may take iodine. If it is necessary, it is immaterial which form one may choose so long as one gets the requisite amount of iodine. I say two miles of walking three times a day or six miles a day is about the normal requisite amount of exercise for the average man or woman as a health preserver. Any other form of general open air exercise would be quite as effective. I suppose, playing baseball, golf, tennis, basketball, cricket, boxing, wrestling, running gymnasium work with and without apparatus and ordinary setting up exercises are good substitutes. But the trouble with all of these substitutes is that few persons can or will take them regularly every day throughout the year. Walking, owing to the time it takes, is now one of the most costly kinds of recreation; some people can't afford it, but with all due consideration for every substitute in the way of exercise, walking is worth all it costs for anybody.

We've Heard of Such Things Happen Before

Dear Fish Story Editor: A man that I know went fishing one day and caught a carp. He took it home and put it in a tub of water. Each day he took a little water out of the tub until the tub became empty, and lo! the fish could live without water. It was then placed in a bird cage. Not long ago the fish fell out of the cage into a pail of water and drowned. This man is now mourning the death of his beloved carp.

ONE PLACE WHERE AMERICA CAN PARTICIPATE IN FOREIGN AFFAIRS WITHOUT HESITATION AS TO CONSEQUENCES

China Has Made Porcelain For Thousand Years

(Le Gaulois, Paris.)
It is almost impossible to determine when the first porcelain was introduced into Europe. The Arabs mentioned porcelain factories and stores in their writings about 800 A. D. The Arabian geographer, Mohammed-el-Edrisi, who lived in Sicily at the court of Roger II, published, about 1154, a geographic work in which he told of the town of Djankow, where "Chinese glass" was made. He added that there was "no finer and more esteemed profession in Djankow than that of a potmaker or a pot designer." Toward the middle of the fourteenth century, Ibn Batuta, the Arabian traveler, described Chinese ceramic as the most beautiful in the world. When Marco Polo returned from China after having been there for 26 years, the account he gave of the marvels of China was received with incredulity by his countrymen. Only after the tale of his explorations in Asia had been translated into several languages, Europeans commenced to be really interested in the celestial empire. At that time sailing vessels were sent out to get Chinese merchandise, and particularly porcelain.

TRADE ADVANCED SLOWLY
Nevertheless the introduction of chinaware in Europe advanced only step by step. From the twelfth to the fifteenth century, porcelain was sold chiefly at the coast of Italy. It seems that it also was known in France. King Charles VI of France owned several dishes of Chinese porcelain. In 1447 Coussy reported that in a letter addressed to Charles VII by the sultan of Egypt, in response to diplomatic overtures made in view to commerce on the Mediterranean, the sultan advised the king that his ambassador was going to bring him several valuable presents made of Chinese porcelain.

The Chinese manufactured dishes and porcelain ware for a very long time. In the history of the great Chinese empire, one reads that only certain towns and villages went in for porcelain industry. The towns of Zeytoun and Sinkian produced mostly those dishes which were exported to India and other countries. Their dishes were not the most beautiful of all.

The finest chinaware was made in the province of Saxji. It was so beautiful and so much like the finest crystal that it never was exported, but was exclusively reserved for the use of the Chinese emperors. The town of Tingul produced the greatest number of pitchers, plates and cups. The procedure employed was simple. The material won from the mines was exposed to wind for 30 or 40 years in order to become pure. Thereupon it was molded, painted in appropriate colors, and then baked. After it had been sufficiently baked, the porcelain was slowly cooled off, and thereby the work was finished. Very elaborate vases, however, took a month's work, and then were of very superior quality and price.

By such simple procedure, combined with exquisite details of ornamentation, the Chinese gave their porcelain ware the highest qualities of finish, beauty and richness which win it the admiration of all art-loving people.

Q. What will take the color out of wash materials without injuring the fabric? F. L. C.

A. The goods must be washed and boiled, then transferred to a warm bath of 300 parts of water and 2 parts of permanganate of potash. In this it must be left for an hour, always under water. It is then transferred to the second cold bath of 500 parts of water with 50 parts of sulphurous acid, in which it must remain for 3 or 4 hours; then dried in a warm place.

Unusual People

HAS UNUSUAL MEMORY
Zion, Ill. — What are the names of the 66 books of the Bible? Eh, what's that? We can't hear you. Oh—you don't know for certain? Well—Marion Smales, four years old last Decoration Day, does.

Furthermore, she can give you the number of chapters in each book.

This done, she can recite the names of the 66 books backward, from Revelation to Genesis.

No, that's not all.

She can recite the First, Twenty-third, and the Twenty-seventh psalms.

Two years ago Marion arrived here with her mother from Yorkshire, England. She began even then to put many older folks to shame when it came to a knowledge of the Book of Books.

Her favorite attitude when reciting for visitors—and she does this without fear or embarrassment—is to fold her hands behind her back and call out the names or whatever she happens to be reciting, in a clear voice.

Marion isn't the only child wonder in Zion schools. Others, older it is true, will tell you the chronological list of the books of the Bible, too, giving in addition the year or thereabout when each was written. Some can recite Christ's gifts to his church. Many give evidence of remarkable memory training.

Membership Drive Of Womans Club To Begin Sept. 19, Board Says

Directors Meet At Playhouse
To Formulate Fall Plans—
Financial Campaign Will Be Conducted During October

Dates for the membership and financial campaigns for Appleton Womans club were set at the meeting of the board of directors in the Playhouse on Thursday afternoon. The membership drive will take place Sept. 19, 20 and 21, at which time every present member of the club will be asked to renew her membership and an effort will be made to add a great many new members to the club. The financial campaign for running expenses for the coming year will be either the week of Oct. 15 or Oct. 22, depending on the dates arranged for the convention of the Wisconsin Federation of Womans clubs.

Considerable business was transacted by the board of directors on Thursday afternoon. Reports of the work of the housing committee during the summer and of the letter campaign for building funds were made. More than $4,500 was secured by the building committee from 78 people who responded to the request for funds which were sent out by letter during the summer. The committee assisted by members of the board of directors will follow up the letters which were sent to the membership of the club in an effort to raise several thousand dollars more.

NEED MORE MONEY
Because $2,000 was taken from the running expense fund of the club in order to make purchasing the Trinity Lutheran church property possible, the report of the treasurer showed the finances of the club at their lowest ebb since its first financial campaign. The money obtained from the membership drive will tide the club over until its financial campaign is conducted.

The board voted to bring Miss Mabel Craig Stillman of the Illinois Vigilance association here early in November to talk to Appleton girls and women on sex hygiene if the cooperation of the report of the parent-teachers associations and Lawrence college can be secured. This matter was left in the hands of a committee.

PLAN FOR PLAY
Mrs. Mabel Shannon announced the dates of the annual womans club play as Oct. 29 and 30. Mrs. Frank Wright reported that the entire program for the year has not been outlined but that the first meeting will be an informal discussion of department work. The housewarming meeting will be in November.

It was voted by the board to rent the suite of two rooms and bath at the rear of the upper floor of the clubhouse if suitable tenants could be found. This matter was left to a committee of which Mrs. H. J. Ingold is chairman. Details concerning rent and organizations for meetings when the larger club was not using its rooms were discussed but no action taken. The matter of purchasing kitchen and dining room equipment also was discussed but action was deferred until the clubhouse is ready for occupancy.

Girls Start Club Drive On Sept. 10

Recreation Department Names
Chairmen—Initiates Miss
Heineman

Eight teams from the recreation department of Appleton Womans club will put on the drive for membership for the department which opens Sept. 10 and continues two weeks, according to plans made at the meeting of sports council on Thursday evening. There will be a competitive prize offered to the team which secures the largest percentage of memberships.

The drive for recreation department memberships will be opened with a rally in the Playhouse at 7:30 Monday evening. At that time, talking points for new members will be given out. The big drawing card for the department this year is its additional facilities with the use of two building instead of one cramped little room.

Chairmen who have been appointed for each team include Laura Rogers, schools; Gerdona Chamberlain, department stores; Mabel Sibby, large offices; Nona Gerlach, professional offices; Catherine McCabe, smaller stores; Regina King, hotels, restaurants and private homes where girls are employed; Marion Ingentron and Evelyn Danstedt, mills.

After the preliminary organization had been completed, Miss Marie Heineman, the new physical director, spoke of the classes in physical education work. The classes will be fewer in number and be longer. The council was told of the department work which has been planned for the year.

The committee consists of Martin Lueders, chairman, William Knorr, Alfred Bauer, George Lausman, Earl Bates, Morris Gehln and George Stedil.

The secretary was instructed to try and secure for an Appleton showing the "Emblems of Love," a motion picture film showing the work of the Moose lodge at Mooseheart and of every 100 women who try it, and taken over by the Progress Film

HOME LIFE MENACED

Never in the history of the world has the life of the family as a social unit been menaced as it is today. Social unrest, the independence afforded women by opening up almost every profession and every line of industry to them, equal rights with men, all of which are perfectly justified if not abused are women have the health and strength to carry out their inclinations in these matters. But alas, when a woman is almost at the point of breaking from her household cares and social life, to take on outside duties often means the breaking point, and homes are often neglected for lack of strength or some ailment develops because of overwork. Weak and ailing women will do well to remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made from roots and herbs benefits 88 out of every 100 women who try it, and let it help them.

ENROLMENT DAYS SCHEDULED NEXT WEEK AT H. S.

New Building Will Be Ready By Monday, Sept. 17—Grades Use Old H. S.

Kaukauna—When the high school and the public grade schools open for the term on Monday, Sept. 17, it is expected that most of the students will have enrolled and have their programs arranged. James E. Cavanagh, new principal of the high school, and superintendent of schools, has announced a schedule which will enable authorities to receive all enrollments without delay or congestion.

Boys and girls who enter the ninth grade this year will be required to report at 9 o'clock next Thursday morning at the old office in the Park school. Persons who were freshmen last year and will enter the tenth grade will report at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Eleventh graders will be enrolled and will arrange their subjects at 3 o'clock Friday morning.

Those in the twelfth grade will report at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon. The new high school will be ready for occupancy on the day school opens. The old high school quarters in Park school will be readily put to use and will greatly relieve the crowded condition in evidence for several years. The former high school assembly room will be cleared of seats and will be made into a physical culture room for Park school. A new law recently put into effect requires two and a half hours physical training a week for all school children.

The former English room will be devoted to the school for defectives while the mathematics and history rooms may be used by the Outagamie training school for practice teaching. The sewing room will be moved from the basement into the physical laboratory. The basement is too damp for the children. The kindergarten will meet this term in the Park school proper and the building across the street formerly used will be closed. The grades which previously met in Outagamie training school because of lack of room, also will be moved into the building.

A change in quarters will be made in Nicolet school also due to the fact that the seventh and eighth grades will convene in the new junior-senior high school. The sixth grade will occupy the room formerly used as seventh and eighth grade and the sewing room will be established in the former sixth grade room. The sewing room will be converted into a physical training room for Nicolet school pupils.

JAP BUSINESSMEN SEEK RUSS TRADE

By Associated Press
Tokio — Business and professional men of Japan who have been badly hit by the failure of Japan and Russia to negotiate a commercial treaty have started movements to secure another conference between representatives of the two countries. The Associated Chambers of Commerce have passed resolutions urging the resumption of relations with Russia, and, besides pressing their own government, propose sending a delegation to Moscow to carry on unofficial negotiations with the Soviet.
A plan has been formulated by a body of prominent business men, scholars, politicians and others to organize a large party to travel through Russia and observe political, economic and social conditions obtaining in that country.
Meanwhile, relations between the two countries have not been improved by some recent incidents. The latest is the refusal of the Soviet to allow the Japanese consul at Vladivostok to send a cable to his government in code. This step was taken because of the refusal of the Japanese government to allow Adolf Joffe, the Soviet delegate, to send code messages to his government during his visit to Japan.

Miss Martha Macheth of Durham county England, arrived in Appleton Tuesday. She will make her home with Mrs. John D. Wilson, 602 College-ave. Miss Macheth and Mrs. Wilson are sisters.

DISEASE MAKING INROADS AGAIN ON COUNTY CABBAGE

Other Crops In Vicinity Of Shiocton Look Promising
For Big Yield

BY W. F. WINSEY
Shiocton—James Powers says that side from the appearance of the cabbage which was destroyed by root rot, he has never had better crops on his farm than this year. His Lonkey Long Island cabbage is doing well and promises a big yield. He threshed 550 bushels of oats and his corn is a bumper crop. He has all his mows filled, has many tons of hay and his pasture is good since the drouth was broken.

Although some of his vines were damaged by the striped beetle and he did nothing to exterminate it, Louis Locke says that his cucumber crop is much better than it was last year.
What the cucumber needs now, Mr.
Locke says, is hot moonlight nights, to make it grow rapidly. Lately the weather has been too cool to get the best result from the cucumber patch.

C. E. Eick, representing the Hamilton Canning Co., New London, says that 30 per cent of the early cabbage has been injured by stump rot and a new kind of rot probably caused by a worm or beetle that he has not seen.
The ordinary stump rot is a disease, the germs of which are in the seed or soil.

Late cabbage, according to Mr.
Eick, has very little stump rot and is a good crop except to the south of Shiocton.

Mr. Eick is now unloading early cabbage, has shipped four carloads already this season from Shiocton and is paying $12.

L. A. Eick, representing Carl Plowaty & Co., Chicago, in the district including Green Bay, Appleton, Seymour, Black Creek, Center Valley and Shiocton says that the outlook for good crop of cabbage is very promising. One field of ten acres in his district, however, has been destroyed by club foot.

Mr. Eick is just now beginning to unload early cabbage and has shipped two carloads from Center Valley. The price paid is $12.

Alfred Moehring has a big crop of apples. A number of his trees are breaking under the unusual load. He can find no market except a cider mill in the village of Nichols. He has already delivered a ton there at 70 cents a hundred pounds. Greenings, although they are not ripe yet, are leading in the big yield this year.

Mr. Moehring's late cabbage is in growth, a month ahead of his last year's crop. The heads are as hard as a bullet and are now weighing from eight to twelve pounds each.

Since the late rains started, Mr.
Moehring's pasture shows great improvement. He has 12 acres of splendid corn and he is planning to start filling his silo on Monday.

Corn and all other crops never looked better about Shiocton than they do this year with the exception of late plantings of corn that missed the early rains.

Automobile Parade Will Be One Of Features Of Fall Style Week Opening

An automobile parade with at least 75 glistening new models and headed by the 120th Field Artillery band has been arranged for next Wednesday, the opening night of Appleton's Fall Style week Sept. 12 to 15, according to plans announced by L. A. Buchanan, general chairman.

George T. Prim, chief of police, has been named marshal of the parade and will have charge of the assembling of the cars and of the line of march. The procession probably will form at the east end of the business section, proceed west on College-ave and return.

The parade will terminate at Soldiers' sq. where an automobile show will be held by the various dealers. Brilliant lighting will be used so the public can inspect the cars. The plan is to have the automobile column in keeping with the fall merchandising idea, and most of the entries therefore will be closed models. Space in the square will be assigned each dealer.

Walter Plamann and I. E. Maxwell form the committee which has charge of the motor exhibit. The Post-Crescent, in arranging its style week edition, probably will include an automobile section.

Merchants are planning to have their windows arranged in fall display before Wednesday, and will keep them lighted while the crowds are on the street to witness the parade and motor show.

Carl Broeckert was at Rhinelander on business Friday.

The Post-Crescent has been able to provide an evening of amusement for a number of people the last few days through the I Spied Today column, because there have been numerous contributors of news items. Two tickets given to Elite theater for acceptable items will permit of seeing the play, "A Man of Action," one of the choice pictures in Appleton for the week. Send in items about the things of news value that you happen to see, being careful to write them up well, with specific details as to time and place. Tickets are issued immediately after the item appears in print.

Cut Down Old Elm

The historic old elm tree, older by far than Appleton itself, and the landmark after which the Elm Tree bakery was named was being cut down Friday by city employees. It was on the line of the bakery and the Louis Bonini meat market.

Alabama Mayor Says Tanlac Restored His Health.

Judge G. W. Thomason, Mayor of Tarrant City, Alabama, widely known and highly esteemed pioneer citizen, recently gave his unqualified endorsement to the Tanlac treatment.

"Chronic indigestion brought me to the verge of a general breakdown three years ago," said Judge Thomason, "and nothing seemed to afford much relief. I was eating scarcely enough to keep going-on, and food stayed in my stomach like a rock, causing pain and extreme nervousness. Sleep was often impossible, and I gradually weakened so I could hardly attend to my office duties."

"The first bottle of Tanlac improved my appetite and digestion wonderfully. My nervousness disappeared and I rested better at night. Each successive bottle gave added impetus to my returning strength, and I felt ten years younger when I finished the sixth bottle a short time later. Tanlac gave me new zest in life that still remains with me."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

Tanlac Vegetable Pills are Nature's own remedy for constipation. For sale everywhere.

"Peter," Hewitt said earnestly, "do your damndest, but for Heaven's sake take precautions. Chai-Hung's terrible enough under ordinary circumstances, but Chai-Hung deprived of one hand will be like a wounded wasp."

"I know," returned the man with the Chinese eyes. He smiled across at Monica. "But he's still the same old Chai-Hung. I've made a life study of him. I've kept him on the run. There'd been the peace in Borneo if he'd been left quietly to his own resources."

"And yet," said Monica, still unconvinced, "you haven't a notion where he is now."

"No, but my men are beating the island pretty thoroughly and, from what I gathered this morning, they're getting warm."

"This morning! But you haven't been out!"

Pennington's face wrinkled. "I'm going to let you into a state secret. Did you happen to hear a Dusun gong beating between nine and ten?"

"Yes," said the Commissioner. "I had half a mind to send an orderly down and have it stopped. I only permit gong-beating in the vicinity of my house on feast-days and times of national rejoicing."

"That would have been a pity," returned the other, "because I should have lost the interesting portion of a most breezy dispatch from the zone of war."

Hewitt grabbed his hat from a peg. "The worthy Major had found his way to our slope. All things considered, it would be as well perhaps if I went to meet him."

"You don't want me, by any chance?" inquired Pennington.

"Not unless you particularly want to come."

"I don't." He waited until the Commissioner had gained the soft earth outside, then dived for the passage-way. "I'm off," he added to Monica.

"Coward!"

"Not in the least. As a matter of fact, I once took a hundred dollars from our model friend at poker and he doesn't altogether cotton to me."

A second later and he had disappeared altogether. Mrs. Viney came forward to greet Major James Lacy Armitage.

"Delighted," said the owner of the monopoly.

"Won't you sit down?" inquired Monica.

The major accepted her invitation and deposited himself in the most comfortable chair within reach.

"Where can I stow my kit?" demanded Armitage, having satisfied himself that nothing was missing.

"You'd like to keep it all under your eye, I suppose. I'll get my boy to see it into your room."

"I hope you'll be with us some time," added Monica, anxious to satisfy her curiosity.

The major started. "I—I'm rather afraid not, Mrs. Viney. I've been sent here on a rather important mission and I don't count on remaining in Borneo for more than a few days."

Armitage turned to the Commissioner.

"What time do you lunch?"

"One," said Hewitt promptly.

"Jack's a bit of an optimist," explained the girl. "To tell you the real truth, we're helplessly at the mercy of our Chinese boy, Mr. Pennington got him for us, principally because he's somehow managed to earn the hatred of the Yellow Seven—and of course he feels safer under the roof of the Commissioner of Police. He's good at his work, but he hasn't the remotest idea what punctuality means."

Armitage frowned.

"You'll have to alter that, Hewitt. I should give him a week in which to improve on it, for that time there's no sign of improvement—fire him right away."

Monica, catching the light in her brother's eye and scenting danger, chimed in quickly.

"Do you golf, Major Armitage?"

"My dear Mrs. Viney, the man who carries out his duties thoroughly has no time for games. Which brings me back to my original subject. I want to get away as soon after lunch as possible, Hewitt. I shall need some bearers, a week's rations and a platoon or so of native infantry. I shall require also an interpreter with a thorough knowledge of Chinese, Malay and English."

"I see," said Hewitt. "Might I take the liberty of inquiring the nature of the expedition you propose making into my country—and why this tremendous haste?"

The major hesitated and looked at Monica, who had already risen from her chair.

"I'll see if I can hurry that boy," she said.

Major Armitage produced a cigar from an upper pocket of his tunic, bit off the end, and lit it carefully.

Presently the preposterous circle of Miss Viney's attention upon Hewitt. "Mrs. Viney mentioned the name of Pennington just now," he snapped.

"I suppose this fellow's still on your strength, wasting government money and making an infernal hash of this Yellow Seven business?"

The Commissioner flushed.

"I'm afraid I must disagree with you," he said. "Chinese Pennington is one of the most efficient men it's ever been my luck to meet."

Armitage had a knack of hearing only those people who agreed with his views.

"I heard of this affair when I passed through Singapore. It didn't take me five minutes to see that the thing had been hopelessly bungled. The way that man was making our status in the East look ridiculous simply ate into my nerves. I could see for myself that it wanted a soldier at the head of affairs. I offered my services and the offer was accepted."

"Those are my instructions," the Commissioner's hand had slipped suddenly across his mouth and his shoulders heaved convulsively.

"Sorry," he apologized presently. "Bit of a back went the wrong way. With an heroic effort he choked down the mirth that consumed him."

"So you're setting out this afternoon with, let's see, a week's rations, a platoon of native soldiers and some bearers. Oh, I was forgetting the interpreter. You'll scour the country, of course, until you knock across the bandit and—I say, isn't a week's rations cutting it a trifle fine?"

"When you know me better," returned the other with dignity, "you'll understand that when I'm on a job—I go straight at it."

"That's the extreme of the thing," said Monica, "and you're only wondering if you quite realized that the area of Borneo is roughly 280,000 square miles!"

Major Armitage waved his cigar in the air.

"Naturally I'm relying on you to give me every possible assistance. I have a letter in my despatch-case to that effect from Trevelyan. I shall want a pushing-off place, so to speak."

"The exact spot where your pot bandit was last located. A list of his places of refuge would be of service and a rough memorandum as to his appearance, personal habits, etc."

"You can have a photograph, if you like, together with a copy of the circular I sent round to all white settlers. There's a slight amendment, by the way: Chai-Hung has lost his left hand during the last few days. This gentleman was once the most respected Chinaman on the island. He enjoyed liberties only extended to white people—and he would still be enjoying them if it hadn't been for young Pennington. Chai-Hung is a big, fat Oriental, speaking perfect English with a fairly guttural accent. He is unscrupulous, merciless and has a distinct aversion to Britishers. His sign is a yellow Chinese playing-card with seven black dots upon it and he dishes these out as a warning of death or an indication that the assassination of a victim was carried out by the Yellow Seven. With scarcely a single exception every Chinaman on the archipelago is in league with Chai-Hung. It means that any undertaking against the bandit must be carried out with the utmost secrecy."

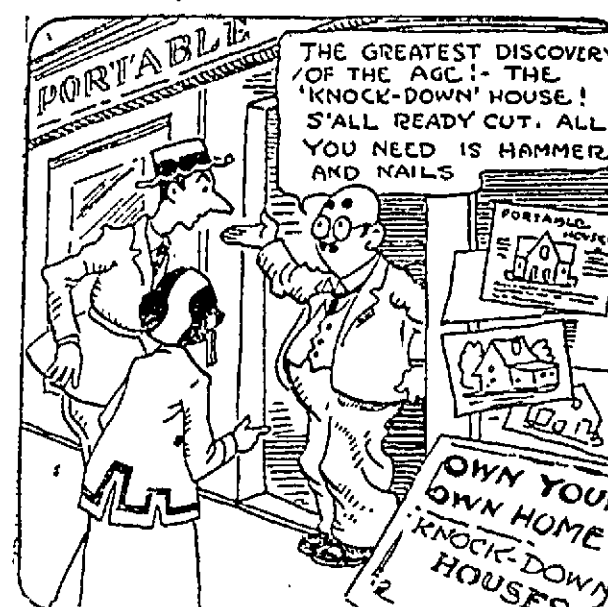

The other pressed the tips of his fingers together in front of him.

"All exceedingly interesting, Hewitt. I must admit, but if I may say so, a little far-fetched. Reading between the lines, you're all scared to death of this Chai-Hung fellow because you have every new outrage fresh on your memory. You mentioned the area of Borneo just now. That has very little bearing on the present question, because more than half the place is under Dutch management and the Yellow Seven confine their activities to British North Borneo, the area of which—considerable—is certainly not vast."

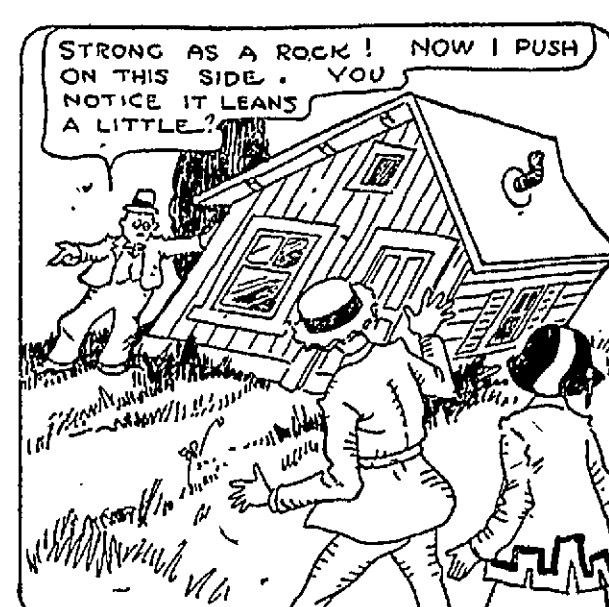

Five minutes later, when the major had retired to the spare-room, the head of Chinese Pennington was thrust through the office window followed almost immediately by that of Monica.

'Y' LEADERS WILL BE IN CITY DURING MEMBER CAMPAIGN

F. E. Anderson And George Goodwin Will Join "Founders' Organization"

Two prominent Y. M. C. A. men will be in the city Sept. 24 to 27 to assist in conducting the 1923 campaign for 1,500 members for the local association. The organization now is being shaped for the big drive.

F. E. Anderson of Milwaukee, advisory state secretary, will speak at the opening banquet Sept. 24 and expects to be here part of the time the campaign is in progress. He was the active state Y. M. C. A. secretary ten years ago when the canvass was made for funds with which to erect the present building. The campaign organization of that year is to stage the 1923 drive in honor of the tenth anniversary.

The other official is George Goodwin, of the International Y. M. C. A. finance bureau. He is a close associate of M. C. Williams of the same bureau, who directed the building campaign. Mr. Goodwin will aid the leaders in reaching the 1,500 goal and will give the association the benefit of his experience and methods.

Letters will be issued soon to the campaigners of ten years ago asking them to serve in similar capacities this year. George F. Werner, general secretary, hopes to have most of the founders in line because he is anxious to put over the campaign at the objective set, which is the greatest ever attempted.

Two campaigns conducted annually in the past will be combined this year, one for members and the other for the Appleton appropriation for state, national and world Y. M. C. A. activity.

Coal Shipping On River May Break All Records

There is every indication Fox river navigation season of 1923 will break all former records. Coal from Green Bay is being handled almost to the exclusion of other kinds of freight and so far there has been no interruption or delay like there was last season. Thousands of tons of coal have been distributed among the manufacturing industries of Kaukauna, Appleton, Neenah, Menasha and Oshkosh, and the shipments to the latter city were never known to be as great as this season. Addition of barges and tugs has had much to do in increasing the tonnage.

C. OF C. BOOKLET LISTS BUSINESS PUBLICATIONS

"Books on Business" is the name of a handy reference pamphlet which the chamber of commerce has had published and will distribute to members soon. It contains a list of all the books in Appleton public library dealing with commercial subjects. There are more than 80 such volumes, classified under the headings of accounting and bookkeeping, advertising, basketry, business correspondence and collection methods, business psychology, character reading, china, glass and silverware, color design, lettering, show card writing, commerce, commercial law, efficiency, factory management, food industries, health and hygiene, house decoration, furniture and wall papers, jewelry, lace, embroidery and art needlework, leather work, money and banking, oriental rugs, paper industry, retailing, salesmanship, textiles and window dressing.

The pamphlets are for free distribution to the public.

8-DAY CLOCK HAS RUN 14 DAYS ON ONE WINDING

The persistence of an 8-day clock in one of the windows of the store of Hauer Hardware company has seldom been equalled by anything mechanical or otherwise. Patrons of the store were given an opportunity to guess the hour and day it would run down and the person registering the closest hour was to receive a prize. Practically all the guesses ranged from 7 to 9 days, but 14 days have elapsed since the clock was set in motion and it is still running, although it has commenced to lose time.

SEEK NEW STATE ROAD TO LAKE AREA AROUND MILWAUKEE

Winnebago-co! Also Offers Changes In Routes At State Hearings

A new road to relieve highway 19 from Milwaukee to the lake districts around Peewaukee, Pine, Beaver, Kaukauna and Oconomowoc lakes will be the chief problem for Milwaukee in the procuring of new state highways. The highway commission and the special legislative committee appointed to conduct a series of hearings throughout the state with a view of adding 2,500 miles to the state's system of 7,500 miles of state highways concluded their tour last week.

New state highways recommended at the Oshkosh hearing Friday were a shorter route from Oshkosh to Wau-pun following county trunk line A; the Winchester-Neenah rd., now known as county trunk line B; the Oshkosh-Berlin rd.; the Oshkosh-Omro rd.

The suggested roads that will interest Appleton motorists most are the Lake shore rd., extending from Neenah to Oshkosh along the west shore of Lake Winnebago, and the River rd. or what is also known as the Brickyard rd., following the west banks of Fox river and Little Lake Butte des Morts. The latter is suggested as a means of avoiding the business districts of Neenah, Menasha and Appleton; the former is recommended as an alternate route for highway 15.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gear and Mrs. Leon Bartlett and children have returned from Milwaukee where they attended the state fair.

STOCKS IN STORES ASSESSED HIGHER

Merchants and manufacturers' stock experienced an increase of $145,500 in the assessment placed upon it this year by A. C. Rule, city assessor. Although there were a few new mercantile establishments this year, other merchants carried a smaller stock than the year previous. This class of personal property experienced nearly the same percentage of increase as other personal and real estate property. Merchants and manufacturers' stock this year was assessed at $3,101,450, as compared with $2,955,950 in the year 1922.

The examination for fish culturist will be held on Sept. 12, and the watchman examination on Nov. 7.

HIGHWAY 47 REMAINS UNMARKED WITHIN CITY

Nearly all tourists who have little trouble in finding their way in Wisconsin fall down when they reach Appleton, particularly if they wish to transfer from 15 to 47, or from 47 to 15.

The latter is the most trying ordeal and almost any hour of the day strangers can be seen studying their highway maps at the corner of Second Ave. and Richmond st., where the highway ends. The momentous question with them is, where can they reach 15, or if on 15, where can they find 47?

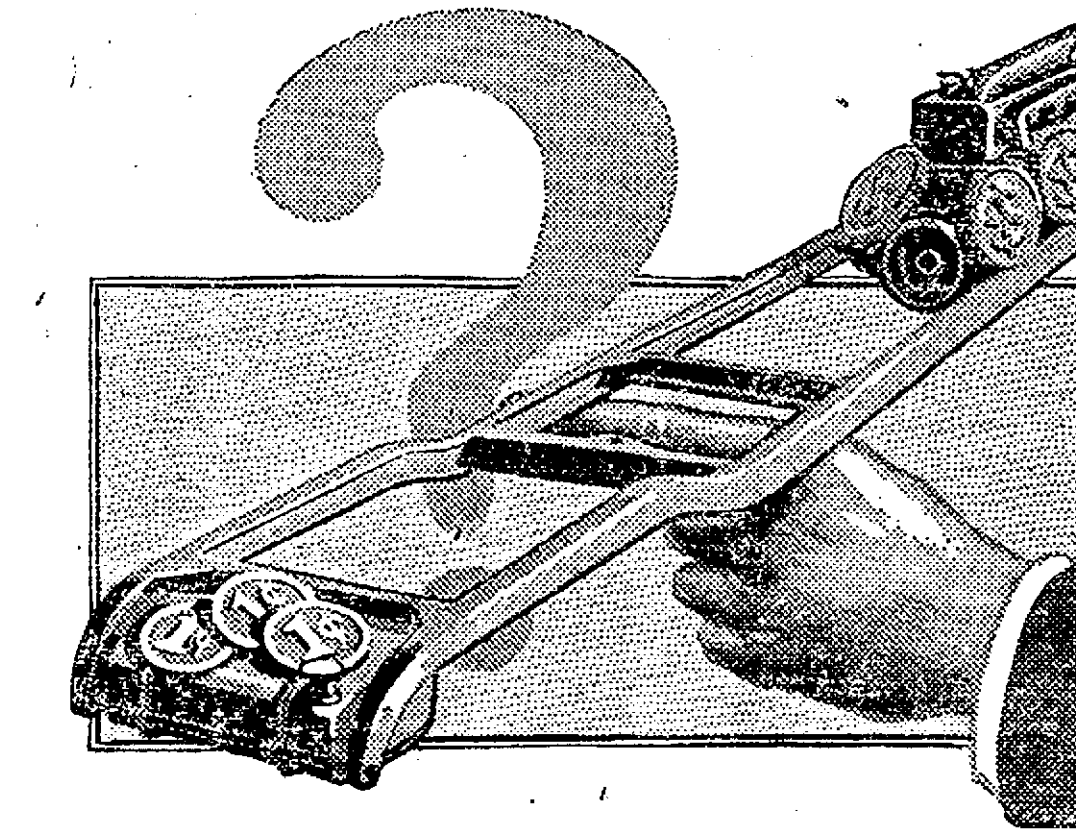

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hawley, Miss Florence Hawley and Erwin Kufner autored to Fond du Lac Labor day, where they attended the fair.

Why Is An Egg?

Eggs are made from feed. Some feeds make more eggs than others, because they contain the proper elements.

The people who are making money from hens now-a-days are those who feed Sterling Egg Mash. It supplies the elements which, in conjunction with Sterling Scratch Feed, produce eggs more profitably than when grain feeds are fed alone. Ask anyone who has tried it.

Mallards in Window

A lesson in nature study is furnished Young America in the show window of A. Galpins Sons hardware store. The window contains a brood of wild mallards that are being domesticated. The little mallards appeared to be enjoying themselves in the water and imagined themselves hidden behind the rushes in spite of the inquisitive eyes peering through the window. The ducks are being raised by Albert Belz, 699 Green Bay-st.

Originators of Low Meat Prices

WHY PAY MORE

You are practically throwing money away every time you pay the high prices asked by small dealers. Housewives who buy their meat supplies from small dealers often pay exorbitant prices. They rebel at the prices charged but habit is strong and simply through force of habit they keep on paying these premium prices, resentful at the injustice and consoling themselves with a vow to trade elsewhere.

We have just one business mission — to supply wholesome meat products at the lowest practical price levels day in and day out. If you will form the habit of trading here your meat problems will be solved.

Underselling ---or Plunder-Selling

It is, perhaps, not surprising that the universal campaign for lower prices should have had a demoralizing effect in certain limited quarters.

Considerable make-shift merchandise,—often absolute trash—is being produced to sell "at a price." Wise shoppers will be on their guard against plunder-selling in the name of underselling.

The safe way is to choose a safe store.

How To Treat Milk Bottles In The Homes

Most housewives compare a milk bottle with any other glass dish, but, a milk bottle in order to be kept sanitary, should first be rinsed with cold water, then it is ready to wash in hot water. There is a certain amount of milk sugar, lime and casein in milk, which when standing in bottles partly full, and air getting in contact with it will adhere to the sides, and if placed in hot water before these substances have been loosened up, these substances will melt so to say and adhere to the sides that only a very strong solution will take them off. They gather in size of pinheads and smaller and is a combination of milk sugar, lime and casein, sometimes called milkstone. Now if every housewife, (and we know all women are proud of being a good housekeeper) will just do this little stunt of rinsing the milk bottle in cold water soon as it is empty, even if they aren't washed in hot water immediately thereafter, but, the rinsing in cold water will loosen the so-called particles of milkstone, and then when washed in hot water will leave a bottle nice and shiny clean, without any of these specks of milkstone visible, and assist the milk dealers greatly in delivering milk in a sanitary container. Again, there is a State law in our statute book which prohibits the use of a milk bottle for anything else but milk, and also that milk bottles must be returned to the distributor soon as it is empty and as soon as the distributor calls for another delivery, which means daily returns of empties, to keep them from contamination.

Yours for cooperation in clean milk bottles,

Dairy Specialty Co.

BoxingBill Lathrop Accepts
Kenosha Offer; Stock
Will Pitch For Locals

Sylvester Doubtful Whether 'Big Bill' Will Be Able To Keep Promise To Work With Appleton After Sunday

Lathrop has definitely decided to accept the offer tendered him to pitch for the Kenosha club of the Midwest league for the rest of the season, and Sylvester has made arrangements to have Harvey Stock pitch for the Papermakers in next Sunday's contest with the Lynchmen at Green Bay. "Big Bill" has promised to be with the Appleton team on the mound for the games with Sheboygan and Fond du Lac, Sept. 15 and 23, respectively, but the fact that he has signed with Kenosha gives rise to a doubt as to whether he will be able to keep his promise. Since he joined Sylvester's clan after being let out by Beebe, the Oshkosh manager, he has pitched his way into favor among the Appleton fans, and his loss is a severe blow to the Papermakers' hopes for winning the State league pennant this year.

OUTLOOK STILL ROSY
However, with only three more games scheduled, and prospects of "Big Bill's" help in two of the remaining contests, the outlook is not as gloomy as it might be, especially since Stock's services have been secured for the contest with the Lynchmen. Stock pitched a two hit game against the Bays last Sunday for Kaukauna, and if he can repeat that performance, the home team will be that much nearer the top.

Rush and his Neenah-Menasha tribe are anticipating an easy victory from Oshkosh Sunday. Both clubs have made several changes in their lineups for that game.

Sheboygan, the third contender for first place, is scheduled to lock horns with Farris' new Red Sox aggregation, which copied an easy victory from the Oshkosh tribe last Sunday. The Fond du Lac club has bucked up considerably since the last shakeup, and the Chairs will find more to do Sunday than they would have had, had they met the Red Sox a few weeks ago. If the Farris club wins Sunday's game, and the Papermakers beat Green Bay, two teams will still be tied for first, conceding that the Falls will cop their contest with Oshkosh.

Kinks o' the Links
by "PRO"

Player drives a long ball from the tee. Hard rains have rendered some of the fairways rather muddy, and certain improvements had just been completed. A cow grazing on the course tramples on the ball and it becomes embedded in the hoof of the cow. For a time the ball couldn't be found, but was later discovered close by the cow which had shifted its grazing territory. Must the ball be played from where found or where it was apparent that it first came to rest? It being a hole in the ground, the flight of the ball from the tee? If the ball has been rendered unfit for play because of the happening, must the player continue to use that ball or has he the right to drop a new one?

This rather unusual happening is governed by section 3 of rule 17, which states if a ball at rest be displaced by any agency outside the match, except wind, the player shall drop the ball in the place as possible, who it lay without penalty. In this case the cow must be considered an outside agency. If the ball has been rendered unfit for play because the cow trampled on it, the player has a right to drop another ball.

Players find their balls resting in a hazard within a club length of each other. Has the player who is farther from the hole the right to have his opponent lift his ball before he plays his next shot? When the ball lies within a club length of each other within the green or in a hazard, the ball lying nearer to the hole may, at the option of either the player or the opponent, be lifted until the other ball is played, and shall then be replaced as near as possible to the place where it lay.

Workmen making some repairs on the fairways are using a wheelbarrow which is lying on the ground near the section under repair. Player drives the ball from the tee and it comes to rest in the pocket of one of the workmen's coat. One player contended that the ball must be driven from the pocket, the location of it being apparent, unless the other player wanted to lift the ball and suffer a stroke penalty. The player who had driven the ball from the tee insisted that he had a right to lift the ball and drop it without penalty. Who is right?

The player had a perfect right to lift the ball from the pocket of the coat and drop it without penalty. The rule concerning this phase of play says: "A ball lying on or touching clothes on ground under repair may be lifted and dropped without penalty as near as possible to the place where it lay, but not nearer the hole."

Bentley Strikes Out Cy Williams Twice, Once With Bases Full

Chicago—The New York Nationals advanced Thursday to a position four and a half games ahead of the Cincinnati Reds who were idle, by defeating Philadelphia, 3 to 1, at the Polo grounds. Pittsburgh who also won defeating Chicago, 5 to 1, in a five inning game which was cut off by rain advanced to just one half game behind the Reds.

In the New York game Bentley earned his keep by striking out Cy Williams with the bases full. Cunningham hit a homer. Hamilton pitched for the Pirates, allowing only five hits, while Alexander, hurrying for the Cubs, let out nine in three innings. No other games were played in the National league, the Cincinnati-St. Louis battle being called off because of rain.

In the American league, Philadelphia defeated Boston, 6 to 2.

Bill Lathrop, pitcher, who one time wore the uniform of the Chicago Americans, has signed to pitch for the Simmons' team of Kenosha in the Midwest league.

Moses Solomon, home run king of the Southwestern league, has been purchased by the New York Nationals. Solomon played first base for Hutchinson, Kans., and cracked out 43 homers in 143 games this season. The purchase price was not announced, but according to Secretary Tanager of the Giants, it was close to $15,000.

John "Dots" Miller, for 13 years a member of the Major leagues and until recently manager of the San Francisco club of the Pacific league is dead. Miller went to Saranac Lake, N. Y., in hopes of recovering from tuberculosis. Miller first attracted attention as member of the pennant winning Pittsburgh Nationals in 1909, when they defeated Detroit in the world's series. Five years later he went to the St. Louis Nationals and later to the Philadelphia Nationals, where he ended his major league career in 1921.

The New York Nationals have purchased Pitcher Greenfield and outfielder Wilson from the Portsmouth club of the Virginia league. The players report at the close of the Virginia league's season Saturday.

The New York Nationals chalked up their eighteenth victory over the Philadelphia Nationals in 30 games when Jack Bentley held his opponents to seven hits, while Mitchell pitched his first game since he injured his hand a month ago, and went down to defeat. Bentley fanned Cy Williams, the league's home run king, twice, once with the bases filled.

Ed Rommel turned one of his good games for Philadelphia and the Boston Americans took the short end of it, 2 to 0. Rommel was invincible except in one inning when his opponents counted twice.

Jack Quinn was on the hill for Boston and was hit hard.

Puzzling
Plays
by Billy Evans

THE PLAY
In a recent minor league game with three balls and two strikes on the batter, the pitcher in starting to deliver the ball to the batterman accidentally struck him in winding up causing the ball to drop to the ground, at most at his feet. The bases were empty at the time.

The umpire ruled that the failure of the pitcher to deliver the ball to the batterman after starting his windup should be considered as a ball. He rendered such a ruling making the batterman.

The bases were out at the time it was the last of the ninth and the score in the game was 1 to 0 in favor of the winning team over the losing.

The winning team claimed the umpire erred in calling the batter by calling a ball when the pitcher accidentally dropped the ball at his feet. With the bases empty, penalty is imposed.

For the umpire to have ruled it a ball was a mistake. The error of the part of the umpire placed the runner in first base when he was out.

Not One Cent Goes To Greb For Wilson Bout

Pittsburgher Must Content Himself With Honor And Championship While Loser Cops All The Money

BY JOHN POLLOCK

New York — Johnny Wilson, who lost the middleweight championship title to Harry Greb of Pittsburgh at the Polo grounds last Friday night, got all the money, amounting to $29,733.12. Greb, for winning the title, did not receive one cent, and had to be content with the middleweight championship. The writer learned from a reliable source that the articles of agreement signed by the fighters were as follows: Wilson was to receive 37 1/2 per cent of the net receipts, while Greb was to draw 12 1/2 per cent of the net. If Wilson lost his title he was to receive all of the money. As Wilson lost, he got the $29,733.12, which was both men's share.

Had Wilson retained his title he would have received 37 1/2 per cent of the net receipts of $57,208.15, which would have made his end $22,583.52, while Greb would have taken down 12 1/2 per cent, $7,141.11, for his share.

The corrected receipts of the fight, including the government tax of 10 per cent, were as follows: The fight drew $56,240.90. The net receipts amounted to $57,208.15, while the state got $3,010.55, which was 5 per cent of $60,219. The tickets sold for the fight, including the government tax of 10 per cent, were as follows:

1,511 at $2	$3,022.00
2,872 at 3	5,516.00
1,057 at 5	5,285.00
377 at 10	3,770.00
3,992 at 10	39,920.00
Total	$58,513.00
With government tax of 10 per cent added	5,021.90
Total	$63,534.90

Stengel Knows
Well How Hard
They Can Slam

With the lively ball in force, pitchers like their base hits as well as any other player on the field. As a result, pitchers instead of striking a batter and listening to the umpire yell strike, or merely taking a weak swing at the ball, always have a healthy cut.

Glance over the batting averages and you will find several pitchers among the batting leaders.

In the National League Casey Stengel is the crown of the organization—the "Nick Attraction" of the circuit. Stengel, aside from being a pretty clever comedian, has a keen sense of humor when he figures as the target in some humorous happening.

Recently a number of Giant players were discussing the ability of certain pitchers to hit. Some of the players thought Jack Stengel was capable of hitting a pitcher.

Yet a pitcher is never asked the harder hitting pitchers. Said Stengel, "I have had more letters on me from the players than I have from the fans. I have been hit by a lot of players, but I have never been hit by a pitcher."

"How do you figure that?" asked one of the players.

"That's just the way it is," Stengel said. "I have been hit by a lot of players, but I have never been hit by a pitcher. I have been hit by a lot of players, but I have never been hit by a pitcher."

Stengel said he had a tip on the pitcher who had hit him. He said he had a tip on the pitcher who had hit him. He said he had a tip on the pitcher who had hit him.

WIREMEN PLAY AT MATTOON SUNDAY

McConrack's Wiremen Telephone team has arranged a game with the Mattoon Independent at Mattoon for Sunday. The club has lost but two games during the entire season, one of them to the Illinois Giants, a related team, which won 4 to 1. Choick Starch and Swanson are the three players of the Independents, and are said to be some of the best in the state. Brooks will do his stuff on the mound for the Wiremen, with Walter McConrack's recent action by Shively of Denver, won the 2-0 pace in the fastest straight heats at the Minnesota state fair.

GRID PROSPECTS
BRIGHT FOR BLUE
AND WHITE SQUAD

Lawrence Will Play Most Difficult Schedule Attempted In Years

Appleton can safely look forward to a season of good football this year, according to the grid magnates of Lawrence. The schedule is the hardest ever attempted, not only because of the calibre of the teams to be played, but because of the arrangement of the games. This is extremely awkward but was entirely unavoidable. All of the Little Five and Midwest Conference games were arranged and contracted for at the conference meeting early this spring, leaving only three early season dates open for non-conference games, which have recently been filled by Coach "Cub" Buck and Athletic Director A. C. Denney.

The grid coaches at Lawrence have received letters from a number of the old football men, stating their intention of returning to Lawrence, and showing their eagerness to get back into the game. Denney and Buck express great confidence in the prospective squad, as a good share of last year's players are returning, and all are full of the spirit that does much to make a winning squad.

Ten complete schedule is as follows: Sept. 22—Stevens Point Normal at Appleton.

Oct. 5—Freshman-Varsity at Appleton.
Oct. 13—LaCrosse Normal at LaCrosse.
Oct. 20—Beloit College at Appleton.
Oct. 26—Cornell College at Appleton.
Nov. 3—Ripon College at Appleton.
Nov. 10—Northwestern College at Watertown.
Nov. 17—Hamline University at St. Paul.
Nov. 24—Carroll College at Waukesha.

Joe M'Ginnity
At 52, Is Iron
Man Of Diamond

By Associated Press
Dubuque, Ia.—Joe McGinnity, 52 years old former of the New York Giants and known throughout the country as the "Iron Man," has finished 31 years of professional baseball at the head of the pennant winning Dubuque Ironmen of the Mississippi league. He is still a pitcher and during the season just closed pitched the shortest game in the league lasting one hour three and one-half minutes. He won 15 and lost 12 games pitched for a percentage of 55.

OSHKOSH TO PLAY
SUNDAY GAME WITH
PAIS AT MENASHA

Both Clubs Make Changes In Lineups—Stoneman Out For Rest Of Season

Fred Beebe's Oshkosh tribe will play the Pais at Menasha Sunday, instead of Oshkosh as the schedule originally provided, according to an announcement issued Wednesday. Oshkosh officials desire to get their grounds in shape for the county fair which is to open there Sept. 15, which necessitated the transfer.

Many of the followers of the Indians, disappointed in their hope of seeing the tribe play on their home grounds, are planning to journey to Menasha-Menasha with the team.

Several changes have been made in the lineup of both clubs since Sunday. The second sacker of the Indians has been given the gate and will be replaced by Fred Harkbath of Washkosh Electric. Durham may be shifted back of the log, and either Beebe or George Jensen will work in rightfield. Blackburn will be on the mound.

Stoneman, Rush's catcher, was injured in last Sunday's game with Sylvesters' tribe and will be unable to play for the remainder of the season. Rush has signed Kleveland, who has been released by the Oshkosh club to play for Stoneman to the end of the race.

SPORT VIEWS AND NEWS

Harry Greb is on the receiving end of a legal suit. An Atlanta, Ga., sport promoter charges Greb with running out of a contract to swap punches with Jeff Smith. The fight manager claims that Greb's manager posted a forfeit of $2,500 for his appearance but when he tried to collect, the check came back for lack of funds. Greb will probably have to do a lot of talking to square himself when he gets into the court room.

Joe McGinnity's club isn't going to get a chance to cross bats with the Three Eye league champs in a post-season series. Dubuque, guided by the "Iron Man" of olden days, copped the bunting in the Mississippi Valley loop and they immediately hurled a deft at Decatur, the probable winners of the bunting in the Three Eye. However, the Combies turned down the challenge for various reasons and McGinnity's outfit is now looking for other worlds to conquer.

The National league schedule appears to have been made to order for the Giants. Right now in the final stretch, the Reds and Pirates, the two other strongest contenders, are fighting it out hammer and tongs against each other. The New Yorkers appear to be sitting pretty again and their chances for another championship are improving every day.

A semi pro baseball war has broken out in Chicago and it promises to be a finish fight. Billy Niesen of the Pyrites appears to be the target for the conflict. The smaller clubs are out after the neck of the "Big Four," namely the Pyrites, Normals, Logan Square and American Giants. Jimmy Ryan, veteran manager of the Romans, is leading the opposition. Threats of cutting prices and stealing players have already been made despite the fact that the diamond skirmish is but a few days old.

Lincoln, Neb. — Jimmy Delaney of St. Paul won a ten round referee decision over Jimmy Shively of Denver in the main bout of an American Legion bill.

Hamline, Minn.—Peter Daphne driven by Shively of Denver, won the 2-0 pace in the fastest straight heats at the Minnesota state fair.

NEW CARROLL COACH LOOKS FORWARD TO STRONG GRID SQUAD

N. Armstrong, Former Center College Football Star, Starts Work At Waukesha

Waukesha — Coach N. Armstrong, former captain and star on the Center college football team that defeated Harvard university, looks for a strong team at Carroll college this season where he is entering upon his first year as coach.

Although eight players of the 1922 team graduated, Coach Armstrong expects a turnout of new material that will assure a strong squad for the present year. The school has a schedule of games that will bring its squad in contact with many of the stronger college teams of the state.

B. Bray, a star on the team last season, will captain the present year's outfit. He will have Bill Allison, West Allis, and Dick Starr, Beaver Dam, from the 1922 regular squad to form the nucleus of the varsity. Two other promising men are Carl Schweers, Shawano, and Novotny Barsh, Beaver Dam.

Coach Armstrong coached with Bo McMillin at Centenary college, Shreveport, La., last season. He was captain of the 1921 Center college team that defeated Harvard and also captain of the basketball team that defeated Harvard, Brown and John Hopkins on successive nights.

GRID OUTLOOK AT
NEENAH PROMISING

High School Coach Expects To Develop Winning Squad This Year

Neenah—Prospects for the 1923 football season for the Neenah high school are the brightest in years, according to an announcement by Coach Walter Jonas.

Coach Jonas is anxious to meet the boys who have ambition to make the grid team this year in order that he may line up his material.

Several of last year's team are back in school this year and from this group a strong eleven should be developed. Among those who are registered for school attendance and who were on the squad in 1922 are Seiger, Jones, Parmenter, Swatschman, Zinn, Collins, Goldner, Kuehl and Sommers. In addition to this squad there are a number of husky lads who will develop rapidly and who will no doubt give some of the last year's men a rub for their positions.

A stiff schedule has been arranged for the coming months starting the first week in October. It is Coach Jonas' desire to get his team in shape for a preliminary game the latter part of this month.

Double Plays Prove To
Cobb He's Slowing Up

Detroit—For several years the base ball experts in the spring have commented on the fact that Ty Cobb was slowing up. Then just as the experts began to think they were right, Cobb would start on a mad speed rampage that would upset all the dope.

Despite the chances that Cobb has been taking on the bases for 18 years, not until a few years ago did he suffer any injury to his legs. Then came a knee injury that kept Cobb out of the game for weeks. On his return he seemed as fast as ever. Since that time the knee has been injured, and it is now beginning to tell in the speed of baseball's most remarkable player.

This year Cobb is being thrown out on slow balls to the infield and fumbled balls that he would have beaten by a step or two ten years ago. Incidentally, time and again he has been doubled up. Once upon a time it was well nigh an impossibility to pull a double with Cobb as the batsman.

"Baseball experts for the last half dozen years have been writing stories about me losing my speed. However, I have crossed them up most of the time. This year I am beginning to think they are finally telling the truth," says Cobb.

"Seems to me I have hit into more double plays this year than in all the rest of my career. That one thing convinces me more than anything else that I must be slowing up some. This thing of slowing up is a comedy and a tragedy. In lots of games my legs feel great. Apparently I am running with by old time speed, but somehow they are always' throw
